CELEBRATING A MAJOR MILESTONE: 100 schools & 10 years of Out to Play!

A decade of creative outdoor learning across Greater Glasgow and beyond

Since 2015, Out to Play has transformed playgrounds into vibrant, imaginative learning environments. Through intensive three-to-five-week residencies and tailored teacher training, Drama Artists help children reconnect with nature, build confidence, and boost attainment, especially where poverty creates barriers to learning and nature access.

100	10	11,500+	4,000+
schools reached	years of impact	children inspired	educators equipped

HOW IT WORKS

Immersive residencies combine drama, storytelling and outdoor learning with intensive teacher training. The approach is designed to embed creative outdoor learning into weekly timetables across primary, ASN and early-years settings. It develops vital literacy and meta-skills, while supporting learners' entitlement to Learning for Sustainability.

"This programme has made me aware of nature and made me more confident and happy."

Pupil feedback after a five-week residency

WHAT CHANGED

95% of teachers committed to continuing to incorporate drama and storytelling outdoors.

84% of teachers reported successful development in pupils' communication skills.

79% of pupils built the confidence to share their ideas in groups.

72% of teachers observed a successful advancement in pupils' literacy skills.

87% of pupils agreed that their choices can help keep our planet healthy.

"The opportunity for Glasgow's youngest children to access and think about nature in a creative way, weaving together so many possibilities in their developing brains, has been hugely important."

Heather Douglas, Former Head of Early Learning and Childcare, Glasgow City Council

WIN AN OUTDOOR LEARNING RESOURCE PACK

Enter our free resource pack giveaway, worth £1,200! Choose from 5 resources, full of storytelling tips, nature stories, drama games and outdoor arts activities tailored for primary schools, early years settings and ASN schools.

For more info visit ecodrama.co.uk / email suzanne@ecodrama.co.uk